Post Exchange to temporarily relocate

By Douglas DeMaio,
USAG Bamberg Public Affairs

The Post Exchange and Power Zone will temporarily relocate from their current location in Bldg 7121.

The main PX is scheduled to move to the Basics Building by Nov. 15 and the Power Zone is scheduled to move by the end of November.

The move is based on the recommendation of a structural analysis that the Corps of Engineers completed on Bldg. 7121.

"We recently received the results of a structural analysis that we had the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers do last year and they recommended that we replace the roof rather than repair it," said Lt. Col. Gary A. Rosenberg, USAG Bamberg Commander. "The study revealed some damage to the structural components of the existing roof and recommended that we correct the deficiencies as soon as possible," said Dave Thompson, Director of Public Works.

The primary concern of the Corps of Engineers is the roof could potentially become hazardous if an increased load is placed on it, for example a significant amount of snowfall.

"Obviously, safety is our number one concern, which makes this move absolutely necessary," Rosenberg said.

"The replacement of the roof requires AAFES to temporarily relocate out of the building while the replacement occurs, which could take up to 15 months," Thompson said.

The move is temporary, but the PX could be in the Basics Building for the next 12 to 15 months, said Annalisa Bonato, PX and PX Extra manager for the Army and Air Force Exchange Service Bamberg.

The plan to repair the PX roof was the number one priority coming out of the Garrison Real Property Planning Board

Sky Soldiers tackle Hohenfels hills for grueling competition

More than 100 Soldiers competed in the U.S. Forces Europe Unit-Level Combat Cross Country Championships Oct. 9 at U.S. Army Garrison Hohenfels, Germany.

HOHENFELS, Germany – The fickle weather gods of Southern Germany were in a good mood Oct. 9, allowing more than 100 Soldiers from 20 companies to compete in the U.S. Forces Europe Unit-Level Combat Cross Country Championships.

The morning air was chilly but dry and the sun unobstructed when 110 runners took off for the rugged, wooded hills found at U.S. Army Garrison Hohenfels.

Wearing their Army Combat Uniform and combat boots – and loaded down with such equipment as a full canteen or camel back, first aid pouch, load bearing vest, and ammunition pouches – they wound their way through six kilometers of trails peppered with inclines.

"I was on the first hill when I realized what I'd gotten myself into," said Spc. Stephen Watts from Company B, 173rd Special Troops Battalion in Bamberg.

With a time of 31 minutes, 33 seconds, Watts clinched second place with only three seconds separating him from the first and third place finishers.

Pfc. Enock Nyaenya, from Co. C, 173rd Brigade Support Battalion ran the course in 31:30 to take first place, while Sgt. Seth Vircks from Hohenfels' Headquarters, Headquarters Co., 1st Battalion, 4th Infantry Regiment, placed third with a time of 31:36.

Nyaenya said "the course was a good challenge with all the hills," which are similar to those found in his native Kenya, where he started running at age 7.

Capt. Amanda Wilson, of HHC 173rd STB, won the women's division with a 33:30 finish and said afterwards: "After being in Iraq and Afghanistan, and because I'm airborne, I came to this race in good shape."

Team scores were determined by adding the finishing place of a team's top five runners. Vircks and teammates Sgt. Victor

Local Soldier competes for $10,000 prize

Sgt. Bryan King hit the mark when he competed at the 2008 Morale, Welfare and Recreation European Military Long Drive competition in Heidelberg, Germany Sept. 13.

By Douglas DeMaio,
USAG Bamberg Public Affairs

A Soldier from the Bamberg Health Clinic won the 2008 Morale, Welfare and Recreation European Military Long Drive competition Sept. 13 in Heidelberg, Germany, and is competing in Mesquite, Nev., this week for a chance to win a $10,000 grand prize.

Sgt. Bryan King is one of six regional winners from around the globe who advanced in the MWR military competition to win an all-expense paid trip to compete in the military division at the RE/MAX World Long Drive Championship Oct. 23.

King, who placed second in last year's RE/MAX finals, fell short of the grand prize, but this year he is out to prove last year's performance wasn't a stroke of good luck and his goal is nothing short of capturing the long-drive title.

"I want to win," King said. "I'll be disappointed if I don't."

Fire safety in the kitchen is priority one

Unattended cooking continues to be the number one cause of fire in U.S. Army Installations. Every year more people are injured and killed in fires in the home. Cooking fires cause the most injuries by far. Here are a few safety tips to keep you and your family from being a fire statistic.

Grease Fires

- If you are cooking with oil or grease and it ignites, do not throw water on the fire. Do not attempt to remove the pan.
- Turn the burner off if you can reach it safely.
- Smother the fire with a pan lid.
- If a chemical extinguisher is near and you know how to use it, use the extinguisher to put out the fire.
- If that does not work, evacuate the building and call 1-1-7.

General Kitchen Safety Tips

- Always keep an eye on food being heated. Do not leave the kitchen while you are cooking.
- Pay attention! Never cook if you are sleepy, intoxicated, or heavily medicated.
- Remember to turn all pot handles inward. Small children and animals can easily bump a pot handle spilling hot grease or boiling water, causing someone to be burned or start a fire.
- Keep the stovetop clean and clear. Keep all appliances free of grease buildup. Wipe up spills and routinely clean the oven. Move combustible items such as oven mitts and utensils away from heat sources.
- Keep children away from appliances when cooking. Create a "kid-free zone" around the stove, and teach children not to play in that area. If you allow older children to cook, supervise them closely and teach them safe cooking practices.

- Dress appropriately for cooking. Wear short or tight fitting sleeves when cooking. Use caution when working near heat sources.
- Try not to reach over the stove for other items. Do not store items above the stove that are combustible or may cause you to burn yourself as you reach for them.
- Carefully monitor hot oil, keeping the pan lid close at hand.
- Be careful around the sink while using electrical appliances. Electrical appliances near water could cause electrocution. Never stand in or near water while using an electrical appliance.

The price is right: 21st TSC offers fest tents for free

21st TSC Public Affairs

KAISERSLAUTERN, Germany – The 21st Theater Sustainment Command here offers one program that is not only unique in Europe but also bargain priced. It is the Theater Logistics Support Center-Europe's tent and canvas repair program and fest tent operations.

The TLSC-E's Supply Activity Europe currently maintains 32 fest tents with delivery of one replacement and one additional tent expected soon. The tents, which range in size from approximately 49 by 164 feet for the smallest to 132 by 197 feet for the largest are a great bargain. The 21st TSC loans the tents out to U.S. military units throughout Europe for free.

"To rent a medium size fest tent for one weekend from a contractor will cost about 8,000 Euros," said Lothar Hasler, the preservation plant manager and one of three certified fest tent meisters at SAE.

"Our prices are impossible to beat," said Gerhard Mehrbreier, another tent meister and equipment specialist at SAE.

But, there are some stipulations. The tents must be used for official business and the borrowing unit is responsible for any damages. If the lender is not part of the U.S. Army in Europe, they also must cover TDY expenses for the tent meister.

Meister is German for champion or master of a trade or craft. The three tent meisters at SAE have a lot of experience and practice in erecting, disassembling, loading and storing the tents. Additionally, they have received a week's worth of formal training and had to pass an exam with a professional organization in Mannheim to be certified.

The 21st TSC's support operations section determines the legality and availability and approves or disapproves the request. The tent meisters actually travel to the site to determine the safest area to erect the tent or tents and the most suitable sizes, Hasler said. The tent meisters are responsible for the coordination with the unit and for safety during the set-up.

Hasler and Mehrbreier recall receiving a number of requests for tents much larger than their intended location. That's one reason for the advance inspection. The other is that they also need to determine what type of fastenings to use depending on whether the site is concrete, asphalt, a forest or a meadow.

Mike Gilcher, a tent and canvas repair section employee at the 21st Theater Sustainment Command's Supply Activity Europe, prepares to take down a 98 by 164 foot fest tent canvas panel, which is available to be loaned out to units for free.

"It really pays to check it out in advance. Then, we also coordinate the manpower equipment needed to erect the tent or tents, which must be provided by the requesting unit," Hasler said.

Additionally, the tent meisters are responsible for safety during the set-up and take down phases as well as for quarterly safety inspections with the units.

The tents are used for large events like organization days, welcome home events and commissary tent sales. They serve as kitchens and dining facilities, are used to house Soldiers during exercises, hold entire gymnasiums or provide storage. They are delivered in containers and currently loaned out to units located throughout Germany, Bosnia, Kosovo, Hungary and Bulgaria.

"About 80 percent of our customers are repeat customers. And it is our customers who make this job so challenging. Customer service tends to be pretty complex since there is a lot of coordinating and improvising involved," Mehrbreier said.

"Intensive coordination is vital. Every site provides a new challenge. This job is never boring, never the same," Hasler added.

The 21st TSC provides the same service for the take down as for the set-up. The tent meisters will be present to coordinate, oversee and implement safety measures. Additionally they conduct inventory checks with the units and assess damages.

Back at SAE, the tents, which are packed to facilitate removal of damaged parts, are then repaired, cleaned and repacked for re-issue.

SAE's tent and canvas repair section processes military and fest tents. The tents are cleaned and inspected for damages to the canvas, ropes and zippers.

"Repairs are prioritized for the fastest turn-around time possible to ensure maximum equipment utilization," Hasler said.

The proof they are succeeding in their endeavor comes with the notes and letters of appreciation they receive, the high number of repeat customers and the fact that, on average, at least two-thirds of their fest tents are usually loaned out. Units interested in the program should contact the Troop Support Section at the 21st TSC's support operations at 484-8081 or 7371.

Hispanic American Heritage Celebration

The Hispanic American Heritage Month celebration Oct. 18 at the Warner Club was a big success.

According to Joana Linares, the event coordinator, "the event had a great turnout."

Linares said about 200 people showed up for the food, dancing and entertainment.

"This event gave many members of this community a chance to contribute, learn, celebrate and enjoy some of the major characteristics of Hispanic American Heritage," she said. "The entertainment was both educational and fun for people of all ages."

The entertainment included everything from guest speakers to dancing and singing performances.

The turn out was great, said Charles Thornton, an Equal Employment Opportunity representative for USAG Bamberg. Everyone had a good time.

As seen in the NEWS ..

As seen in the Frankischer Tag Oct. 18 - 22

So far 20 people suffered monetary damage

Unknown persons have been phishing for credit card information unbeknownst to the cardholders at an ATM of the German Postbank at "Promenadestrasse" in downtown Bamberg. With the card information they obtained, they were able to withdraw money from several accounts totaling an amount of more than 1,000

Euros. Police are advising Postbank customers who used this particular ATM to check their bank statements to see if any unauthorized transactions were made.

Lower fuel prices create high demand, local fuel shortage

Customers planning to purchase their heating oil for the upcoming winter season must be patient. Due to the noticeably decreased oil prices, oil suppliers are experiencing an increased demand and customers can expect a wait of approximately two to five weeks before they will receive their order.

Indoor pool will cost more than 38 Million Euros

It's going to be at least another six months before the first construction equipment will break ground for the indoor pool on Pödelorfer Strasse. According to information from Bamberg's Lord Mayor Andreas Starke there are several reasons for the increased costs. First the pool will be the first in Europe built as a low-energy building, which is proving to be costly but in the long term will save money with its energy efficiency. The indoor pool is scheduled to open fall of 2011.

Armed man robs Netto store

A masked man assaulted two women in a Netto store at gunpoint Oct. 20. The perpetrator entered the building around 5:45 a.m. and forced the manager and an assistant into a room where the safe was located and forced them to open it. He was able to get away with a five digit Euro amount. The women were in a state of shock and had to be treated by emergency services. An immediate search by police produced no leads.

Sgt. Bryan King is one of six regional winners who advanced to compete in the military division at RE/MAX World Long Drive Championship Oct. 23.

Drive

King grew up playing baseball, he said, and has only been playing golf for three years.

He noticed he was able to hit the ball a long distance, but his accuracy was not so good, King said.

"Once I was able to hit (the ball) remotely straight, it worked out," King said.

King doesn't believe winning the championship this year will be simple because more regions were added to the contest.

Europe and Asia were added to the events this year, he said.

Even though King was stationed in Würzburg, Germany, last year when he made the finals, he was fortunate enough to compete in the tournament because he was on Temporary Duty in Texas when the 2007 qualifications began, he said.

King did well at Fort Hood and advanced to the championship.

King said serving his country has given him many reasons to be thankful.

He met his wife in Germany, he said. The Army has also allowed him the opportunity to travel and compete in the long-drive competition twice.

Yet King is not content with just the opportunity to compete.

"The goal for me has been to get back to this year's competition," he said. "The goal is to win."

Diaz (fourth overall), Sgt. Lester Scott (sixth), Sgt. Kevin Sentieri (10th), and Capt. David Veney (12th), as well as Maj. Sean Fisher and Spc. Robert Smith, formed the HHC, 1-4 Infantry team that won first place with a combined score of 35 – far outreaching the second and third place teams from Bamberg that had scores of 73 (Co. C, 173rd BSB) and 93 (615th Military Police Company), respectively.

"This is a good event because it really serves as team sport," said Fisher, who two weeks ago finished the Army 10 miler in one hour and 17 minutes. "It reinforces that you have to pull your buddy along instead of getting a good time for yourself."

Nyaenya's individual first-place finish helped his team from Co. C, 173rd BSB claim the second place team slot, though they said they are determined to do even better next year.

"We should have done two laps this year [to prepare]."

"We should have done two laps this year [to prepare]," Nyaenya said, promptly eliciting groans from his teammates. There seemed to be a consensus among most of the runners that this year's course was more challenging than previous races.

Even with this year's increased difficulty, the majority of participants said they would be returning next year to once again test their endurance against the harrowing hills of Hohenfels' challenging hills.

Fire

- Check regularly for frayed or damaged cords to appliances. Plug one appliance in a receptacle at a time. If you need to plug more appliances into a receptacle than there are plugs, use a surge protector or have a professional electrician install more receptacles.
- Keep appliances in proper working order. Do not use them if they are defective.
- Keep appliance cords as short as possible. This helps to keep from tripping or knocking the appliance over.
- If you have a fire in your microwave oven, do not open the door. Close the door to the microwave if you do open it and unplug it immediately. Do not use the microwave again until a professional has checked it.
- Never put metallic materials in the microwave oven. These materials cause sparks, which may result in a fire.
- Remember that steam escaping from a pan or container can cause severe burns. Open food that has been cooked in the microwave carefully.
- Keep your emergency numbers near the telephone.
- Always call the fire department for any fire, even if the fire has been completely extinguished.
- Have a fire evacuation plan and practice it with your family!

The USAG Bamberg Fire Prevention Bureau will be glad to help citizens who have questions about fire safety. To speak to a fire professional, call DSN:469-8887 or CIV:0951-300-8887 during normal business hours.

completed in August, Rosenberg said. This board includes both Garrison representatives and tenant unit commanders who vote on the prioritization of projects for the community.

Rosenberg and Bonato agree, "We're trying to make this move as comfortable as possible for the community."

Preparation for the move has already started, but there could be some minor changes involving the scheduling of the opening.

"It is really time consuming to make a move like this," Bonato said.

The most time consuming part of the move involves building storage areas in the new PX facility and setting up the layout of the store.

The PX is expected to close for no more than two days before it reopens at the new location.

The reason why the PX will close is because the cash registers will need to be set up on the AAFES' network and the merchandise will need to be moved into the new building, she said.

"To be on the safe side, if there is any snowfall between now and the scheduled move, the stores will close," she said.

The Power Zone will move to the seasonal store by the PX Extra and the seasonal store will move to the entrance of the Basics Building, Bonato said.

"If we were to move the Power Zone into the Basics Building, we would have had to cut down (on inventory)," Bonato said. "That wasn't a logical choice, so that is the reason why the seasonal store is being moved."

Task Force Dagger steps up to training shortfalls

Story by Capt. David J. Lenzi

FOB ECHO, Iraq - The 8th Iraqi Army Division currently ranks second in M16 and M4 fielding within the Iraqi Army. As beneficiaries of the division's efforts and in concert with their American advisors, the 8th Field Engineer Regiment fielded more than 250 weapon systems. However, with the division's high standards, the Engineer Regiment identified a training shortfall with the new weapon system. Task Force Dagger, 54th Engineer Battalion, stepped in swiftly to fill this training void.

First Platoon, 370th Engineer Company, an integral part of the 54th Engineer Battalion's Iraqi Army Partnership effort, began classes on the Sept. 16 with their Iraqi Army counterparts.

The Dagger Soldiers displayed great flexibility, reacting to the needs of their Iraqi partners to develop a tailored training experience in only three days. First Platoon, 370th Engineer Company, addressed several important topics, including cleaning and maintenance as well as safety, to help ensure a smooth transition for the Engineer Regiment to the new weapon system. These classes will form the basis of the "Train-the-Trainer" program for the Iraqi Army Engineers and aim to ensure that subsequent fielding operations are accomplished smoothly.

The outstanding efforts of 1st Platoon, 370th Engineer Company, and the Iraqi Army Engineers are being recognized at the division level. The Iraqi Army Engineers can be expected to take the lead in weapons training and familiarization, with 1st Platoon, 370th Engineer Company in over watch, for the Division. The 8th Iraqi Army Division continues to set the pace within the Iraqi Army as the premier unit and, with the help of Task Force Dagger, is working to show their sister units the way forward for M16 and M4 fielding and training.
